Proposed Creative Europe project

Field(s)

Decorative arts & Craftwork, Digital art

Description

Decorative arts & Craftwork ; The main goal of this project is to conduct textile workshops in order to restore the esthetic principles of historical Georgian textiles, employing the unique methodology of copying from Georgian frescoes the embroidery and ornaments of the church-building donor's clothing. The Art Palace team has already published material documenting Georgian clothing from 7th to 20th century in an encyclopedic work named "Textile from Georgia".

Digital art: The project will also include a virtual museum: a website that provides information about textile workshops, textile reconstruction-restoration techniques, as well as employment opportunities for people with disabilities. For the first time in Georgia people will be able to see textiles that are based on the clothing of church-building donors. High-resolution photographs on the website will enable viewers to zoom in and analyse each element of the textiles in great detail.
